DR. J. D. BUZZELL'S

CELEBRATED FAMILY MEDICINES

THESE Medicines are purely Vegetable, and extensively used in various parts of the United States, the British Provinces and the West Indies.

They are particularly intended for the removal of Chronic Diseases, such as habitual or periodical Headache, Catarrhs of the Stomach, Liver, Kidneys, urinary vesicles, glands, &c. Dropsy, Rheumatism, Gout, and some of the preparations, viz: the Bilious Bitters, Pills, Jaundice Mixture, and anti-acid preparations. When generally used, their effect is opening obstructions, removing all morbid and offensive matter from the stomach and bowels, which he has reason to think is always their effect in all cases within the control of medicines. They operate as preventives in various epidemic diseases, such as Intermittent, Inflammatory, Bilious, and common Typhus fevers, Inflammations of the Lungs, Bowels, Pleura, Cholera Morbus, Diarrhea, &c.; also as preventives to some contagious diseases, such as Yellow Fever, Scurvy and Putrid fevers, and although there are some contagious diseases which they are not capable of preventing, such as small pox, measles, hooping cough, &c. yet he, from many years' experience, has become confident, that all those who contract any of these diseases, while under the influence of these medicines, taken in such doses as to keep up and maintain a healthy action in the secretory and excretory vessels of the digestive organs, are but slightly affected, and are easily managed.—whereas, on the contrary, death ensues in many cases, they would prove not only distressing, but uncontrollable and dangerous.

Vegetable Bilious Bitters.

Prepared exclusively at his Dispensary in Cape Elizabeth, near Portland, Me. These Bitters are particularly serviceable in all cases of obstruction of the stomach and bowels, and in chronic affections of the liver, and particularly serviceable where there is a loss of appetite.

Vegetable Bilious Pills.

These Pills are intended to remove all Bilious Obstructions, regulate the Secretions of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels and Kidneys, and to restore a healthy action in the digestive organs, by removing all unhealthy matter from the elementary canals.

Jaundice Mixture.

This Mixture will be found a speedy and safe cure for Jaundice, and of singular service in all cases where the bowels have lost their proper tone, or have become torpid, attended with obstinate obstructions. It is also an efficacious remedy for bile, and for which the directions accompanying the medicine are to be strictly observed.

Hemorrhoidal, or Pile Powder.

This medicine may be relied upon to give immediate relief, and their use persevered in, will effect a certain cure.

Compound Strengthening Plaster.

A local weakness, or a pain in the chest, stomach, side, or back, will, in most cases, be removed by the application of this plaster to the part affected.

Ointment for the Cure of Cutaneous Eruptions.

A few sparing applications of this ointment, morning and evening, will be found a safe and efficacious remedy in all cutaneous eruptions. It is a remedy for eruptions of the face, with which children are so often afflicted, and even in cases of scald head, a lotesome affection of the head, in which state it is covered with a contagious scab, it is a safe application, effecting a cure. It will generally cure that troublesome and truly perplexing humor, called by many the Barber's or Juken itch, observing in all cases, to take the ANTI-ERUPTIVE and COOLING POWDER, according to its accompanying directions.

Cough Mixture.

A remedy for all coughs proceeding from colds, asthma, chronic catarrhs, consumption, influenza, and inflammation of the lungs or pleura. It is also found very useful in ameliorating the violence of hooping cough.

For a more full and particular description of disease, and the medicine to be applied, I beg leave to refer you to my Circular, in pamphlet form, which may be found wherever the medicines are for sale, and to the remarks accompanying them.

Effects of the American Tariff or our trade with England.

The article which we published on Monday from a London paper, relative to the imports and exports of goods into and from England and the United States, is to us the very strongest argument that has ever been published or made, or that possibly could be made in favor of the American policy of a protective tariff. Indeed we cannot see how the opponents of such a tariff, can gainsay it or resist its force. Figures cannot lie. The article referred to, is no political effusion got up for effect, but a compilation, by a foreign editor directly interested in an opposite result, from an official document made by the proper officers to and by direction of Parliament. The facts then may be relied upon as true. These facts thus given, not in mass, but by items, are that in every article, with perhaps one exception alone, a falling off of about one half from 1833 and more than two thirds from 1835, has taken place in the exports from England to this country, during the last year, and also that during the same year an increase in a far greater proportion has taken place in the exports from this country to that. We will not here repeat the particulars but refer to the article itself for information. These facts being proved, the interesting question arises what has effected this great change.

In relation to the imports into this country, allowance is first to be made for a more prudent and economical mode of living, which has been adopted by our citizens. But this fails to account for any but a small part of the difference. This same degree of economy has been practiced for several years past, and during some of them to a greater extent than during the last year, and yet the last year far exceeds them all for the smallness of the importation. Again, we must consider that though economy has effected some change, this is offset by the increased supply required from a rapid increase of population, which has been all the while going on, and too, that during the last year a great deal has been doing in the way of building rail roads, manufacturing establishments &c to a greater extent than in former years, which also serves to offset the diminution effected by economy in our personal expenditures. These several causes combined leave the great question, what has caused all this change, unsolved. The only answer is that our wants have been supplied from our own resources. We now make, raise and manufacture what we once bought and had England manufacture for us. This conclusion is inevitable. And what has brought about this result? what has caused our manufactures thus successfully to compete with those of England, where labor is rewarded by a mere nominal compensation? The paper from which the extract referred to is taken, answers the question, it is the result of the American tariff. Every body with only one eye open sees it, no body can deny it. Protection alone, like that which the infant requires during his feeble years to give him strength and health in manhood, has or could effect such a result, that protection, which under former system fostered our manufactures into life and which the present system has revived and restored with increased strength and activity.

Another question then reverts how has this protection affected the price of the protected articles and thus affected the prosperity and wealth of our citizens. Let the facts themselves speak, that prices have in almost every instance diminished under its operation, and in some cases to a most surprising extent. But even suppose the opposite result should follow. What would it prove? Why, nothing more than that the laboring class, whose wages and labor furnish the basis of all prices of manufactures, are more liberally paid than before. For what is put on to the price is added in about the same degree to the wages of him who performs the work. Profit is an item which the severe competition of the times will not admit of being very extravagant, and therefore the manufacturer is compelled to sell for about what his article costs. Nor is this, as is sometimes alleged, merely taking from one pocket to put into the other. It is but a few, comparatively, that perform the labor, while all consume and pry for the objects of consumption, and these who labor the least, the rich, consume and pay for the most. So that while the laborer pays away a little in an increased price for his goods, he gets back much more by way of increased wages. This is the conclusion to which we unavoidably come, even under the supposition made, that prices are increased by the protection. But as we before stated, such a supposition is improper as facts prove that an opposite result always has followed. Our own experience teaches that seldom if ever have prices been so low as during the last year when the tariff was in operation.

Another fact proves the same result. It is that given in the second part of the article referred to, which shows a great increase in exports from this country into England during the operation of the tariff. This fact shows that we can, and do, afford manufactured articles at a cheaper rate, even in an English market, than they can themselves. This, to be sure, is true as yet of a few articles alone. But if such results have already followed in so short a time, we may expect other important ones will follow in other branches soon. A fact has lately come to our knowledge confirming the above statement. A single house in Boston a few days since, sold to one person $40,000 worth of manufactured cotton fabrics, to be exported to England on sale, and other facts of a similar character, relating to other kinds of manufactures, frequently come to our knowledge. These facts prove conclusively, what the English confess is the truth, that the American tariff is the cause, the only cause, of the great change.

And this same cause, we contend, has, in a great measure, brought about the great result mentioned in the last part of the article referred to, we mean the great increase of provisions imported into England from the U S during the last year. This protection, by retaining our wealth within our country and thus reducing the price of manufactured articles, has enabled our farmers and stock-raisers, our wool and wheat, tobacco and cotton growers, to carry on their respective business to a greater advantage and thus afford a supply for a foreign market, after feeding all our own citizens.

In view of all these facts, who can be a supporter of the destructive doctrines of "free trade," or would infringe upon, or disturb, that noble system of protection which is now working such happy results?

Schooner Ohio of Newport R. I.

A letter from one of the crew of this vessel which was lost on the coast of Patagonia, while engaged in the sealing business has been published in the New York papers giving an account of the particulars of the loss. The vessel struck at midnight on the 16th of March. Her three boats were stove at the same time. The crew 25 in number, had thus no way of escape left except by building a raft. On this raft they all except the Captain and one other embarked. But it was soon upset by the waves and the crew obliged to return to the wreck. As, however, it became necessary for a part to seek assistance on the raft, Capt Smiley and six of the crew (who were drawn by lot from the whole number) immediately embarked upon it, and left the vessel. The schooner went to pieces the next day and those left upon it saved on different fragments, by the assistance of which they reached the island. For five days they suffered intensely from hunger and thirst, when they succeeded in procuring some bread and water from the wreck. Two of their number were drowned in attempting to swim to the main land, and the cook died crazy for want of water. The remainder were taken off in a boat which the raft's crew obtained and with which they came to their assistance.

True goodness can consist only with perfect freedom of will and action. All other is only apparent. Whatever then operates to constrain or infringe man's entire freedom of thought and act, in the same degree disables him from attaining the true standard of virtue. Whatever addresses itself to a man's fears or hopes, as proper incitements to action and feeling, as effectually operates to disturb his freedom, as outward force; and in some respects more so, inasmuch as in the latter case the opposition is seen and can therefore be understandingly combatted, but in the former it is insidious and perhaps not realized. So well recognised is this truth in legal science that the judge, in obedience to it, excuses the prisoner from accountability, as not speaking the true character of his mind, whenever he makes any confessions under either of these influences. Well would it be if in the kindred profession of theology, the same great truth was a matter both of faith and practice.

'Our chan' wishes us to state that what he said in yesterday's paper about political honesty was not among the items of news received "by last night's mail." On the contrary, it was among the first impressions its cushion ever received, but as he has never seen it practiced upon, he imagines that it will prove true, as an item of news, to all persons and papers wherever it may go. We acknowledge the fault to be altogether that of the

COMPOSITOR

To our Cushioned Chair

We arrived at this industrious manufacturing town at an early hour this morning in the steamboat Huntress, by the way of Portland. In a ramble about the village we find along upon the hard working but untiring little stream emptying into the Kennebec at this place one woolen and carding and one carpet factory—2 paper mills—two machine shops, a furnace—3 tanning mills—a forge—a box factory—planing machine—14 saws for sawing boards—8 shingle machines—7 clapboard machines—2 sash and blind, and 1 last factory—4 tanneries—1 stone ware pottery—grist mill with 5 run of stones—1 plaster mill, and in addition there is the usual quantity of mechanic shops. There has been the present season considerable activity in building stores and dwellings and in repairing those already built, so that the indications about one are highly favorable as to the thrift and growth of the place. There are many private residences here of great elegance, with ample gardens and plats in front well filled with ornamental trees and shrubbery and tastefully laid out with well designed gravel walks fringed with choice flowers. This gives a very pleasing and luxurious richness to these dwellings, in one of which we have been, by the hospitable kindness of our friend Mr Hoskins, with a home during our stay, and we cannot do otherwise than give him our grateful thanks for having contributed so much to our happiness not less in the natural ornaments of trees and shrubbery and flowers in the highest cultivation than in the social delights of his household.

As we arrived here one day in advance of the meeting of the State Convention, we have improved the opportunity furnished of making a visit to Augusta, situated about six miles up the river. In company with a friend we hired a private carriage and after passing the village of Hallowell, we made a call upon our worthy friend the editor of the Kennebec Journal. Under his escort we were soon rambling over the high hills that skirt the village of Augusta. The scenery was varied and surpassingly beautiful and the stroll afforded us much pleasure. In the afternoon we visited the Insane Hospital, an institution which is an honor to the State and for the establishment of which a deep debt of gratitude is due to Hon Ruel Williams of Augusta and Benj Brown Esq now a citizen of Bangor. This institution, under the direction of Doct Ray, is worthy the highest confidence, and should be made the home of all the insane in the State either supported by their friends or by the towns to which they belong.

August 9, 1843

There is great interest taken here to hear the address of Elihu Burritt Esq before the State Convention, he having been invited to address the convention.

The delegates assembled at the Universalist meeting house this forenoon, and was the Convention zediorgan by the choice of the following officers,

President
FREEMAN H MORSE, of Bath

Vice Presidents,
ARRON A WING, of Levant
W C BAILEY, of Farmington

Secretaries,
HENRY B HOSKINS, of Gardiner
GEORGE W LADD, of Bangor

The committee appointed at the last convention reported upon the subject of a School for apprentices and the same after a spirited debate was recommitted to a committee to report at a future convention. There was a mass of business mostly of a preliminary character disposed of during the forenoon.

In the afternoon an address was delivered by Oliver S Beale Esq of Bangor. After the address, there was an animated debate upon the subject of establishing a periodical, and the subject was referred to a committee to report to morrow. A thronging multitude filled the house in the evening to hear the lecture by Mr Burritt. He was introduced to the Convention in an eloquent manner by the President.

Mr Burritt commenced by congratulating the members of the convention on their assembling together and regretting that circumstances beyond his control had prevented him from preparing a special and appropriate address for the occasion. His subject however he thought would not be wholly inappropriate and he would call attention to the subject of Roman Patriotism.

Contrary to all our expectation regarding Mr Burritt we found him an eloquent and graceful speaker, causing a quickened flow of the blood, enchainning his audience and bringing down the rapturous applause of his hearers. He appears more remarkable than ever. He not only has the power of acquiring languages, but he has a gizzard in his mind that enables him to digest what he examines. More of this anon.

Whig Caucus.

Let no whig forget the caucus to be held at the City Hall this evening. It is full time to be up and doing, preparatory to the grand rally to be made for the choice of our State and County officers, and Representative to Congress the 11th of September. Cand dates to be supported by the whigs for all their trusts are to be nominated at Levant, on Wednesday, and it becomes all to see that so far as they are concerned the right men are selected to represent them. To all good whigs then, we say, be at your posts this evening.

A bountiful rain has been showering upon us for a day or two, which has had the effect to revive the withering hopes of our farmers.

Nina.

This novel of Miss Bremer, translated in Boston, is in press and will be published soon.

This work, two or three numbers of which have been shown us, promises to be one of high value. It is designed, and from what we have seen of it, is well calculated to be of great use and interest, not only to the juvenile portion of readers, but also to adults. The work is to consist of 20 vols., of two parts each of about 150 pages, and is to be afforded at the low price of 25 cents each part. The numbers will be delivered separately as they are published. The object of the work is to give succinct accounts, in an interesting and useful form, of famous men and women, of the present as well as of past times,—extraordinary characters, or, as he calls them, Curiosities of Human Nature—historical sketches and natural histories and curiosities, together with a great variety of useful knowledge connected with these several subjects. In the numbers already published, are contained the biographies of Burns, Johnson, Shakespear, Burke, Bacon, Milton and many others, the history of many wonderful characters, such as Casper Hauser, Zerach Colburn, Elihu Burritt, Henry Kirk White, Ethan Allen, Daniel Boone, Old Parr, Daniel Lambert, &c, this list amounting to about 60 in number.

The fact that Mr Goodrich is the writer and conductor of the work, is, we think, a sufficient guaranty that it will be well done and worthy of a liberal patronage.

Smith & Fenno are agents for the work, and will receive subscriptions, and we are informed by Mr Goodrich that no numbers will be delivered except to subscribers.

We learn from an exchange paper that there is a monthly sheet in quarto form, called the "Expositor" issued at the Gazette office in this city, devoted to the principles of the Liberty party. Really we did not know that we had such a neighbor. When did he come, and whence. We once knew the fellow while he was at the Age office in Augusta, but his character became so very bad and suspicious that we have never since heard of any one putting sufficient confidence in him to give him employment. It seems, however, he is now "devoted to the principles of the Liberty party." Did Delia Bodge's mantle fall on you, neighbor, when she "shuffled off her mortal coil?"

Two men named Elworth & Fogg are engaged at Chelsea, Mass in walking on a bet, 1000 miles in 1000 consecutive hours. A few days since they were summoned before the grand jury in Boston, and that they might not lose any time, while in attendance, they walked once or twice around the common.

Information Wanted.

Mr Hosea Stoddard, a Cooper (set-work), who has for about twenty years past resided in this city and for several years has boarded with Mr T D Liscom, having been indisposed and partially insane for about a week left his lodgings on Wednesday evening or during the night and is still missing.—He was seen about four o'clock on Thursday morning standing upon a rail lying at the core, and no subsequent intelligence of him has been obtained. Mr Stoddard was about forty years of age, five feet six inches high, brown hair, and wore his beard unshorn below his chin. In the hope and possibility of his having in his delirium strayed away and being yet alive, this notice is given to the public. Any intelligence in relation to him will be gratefully received.

By the Last Mails.

North Carolina.

We have a few more returns from North Carolina. Stanly, Whig, has probably been defeated, though the statements are contradictory. Rayner is certainly re-elected, as also McKay. The Whigs appear to have gained on the vote of last year in nearly every county where there has been a contest.

Fatal Rencontre.

The N Y Herald says, we have seen a gentleman who has just received, by letter from Nashville, the particulars of a ferocious rencontre which took place at the Nashville Inn, on Wednesday week, between Jesse J Bryan, of Clarksville, and Gideon C Matlock, of Carthage. Several shots were fired, which resulted in the death of Mr Bryan, who survived his wound but a few minutes. The affair will be fully investigated before the civil tribunals.—Mail.

Daring attempt to commit Highway Robbery.

On Tuesday Evening at about 10 o'clock, a man by the name of John Stevens was passing to West Cambridge from Boston, where he had been to sell some fish, when near the Pine woods in Cambridgeport, he was stopped by three ruffians, one of whom presented a pistol and demanded of him not to make any noise on peril of his life and then struck him with the breech of his pistol. A wagon passing by at the time alarmed the robbers who made off, and the man was taken to the village. He was severely bruised, having three large gashes on his head and one on his face.

The Pirates of the Sarah Lavinia.

Babe and Mathews have been examined in N York, at the U S Marshal's office and were fully committed to take their trial for murder and piracy.

The examination of the man apprehended at Albany, supposed to be Webster, one of the pirates, has resulted in a belief that he is not the individual sought, though he has not yet been set at liberty.

The Louisville affray.

Later accounts than that published yesterday are more favorable to Mr Clay. It seems that Mr Brown first fired a pistol at Clay, which caused him to return the assault by a stab in the abdomen. The wound was supposed not to be mortal.

Passengers.

When the Richmond and the Splendid left the wharf at Hallowell on Monday last for Boston, it was estimated that there were 1600 passengers on board both boats. How many more did or could get on board at Gardiner, Bath &c, we have not heard.

On Tuesday afternoon a whirlwind passed over a part of the town of Taunton, over Whitton village, through Raynham &c blowing down several houses uprooting trees and doing down other pieces of mischief. No lives lost. We hope Mr Espy will be made acquainted with the particulars.

Harvard University.

The Association of the Alumni have concluded not to hold their annual meeting this year on account of the person who was to deliver the address becoming unable to do so, and sufficient time not remaining to select a substitute.

Phenix Bank Trials.

The trial of Wyman & Brown continues to go on slowly. Little progress was made on Wednesday. Hunnewell's examination took up a large part of the day and after one or two other witnesses were introduced by the Government, the Court adjourned.

There were 4,000 persons at Saratoga on Sunday 1,000 at Castellani's Concert on Saturday evening.

The following is the last elegant extract, which we are permitted to take from the Journal.

"Had John Tyler never been elevated to the present situation, the nation might, for a long time have wanted an example of how mean a thing a President may be."

The G was at Delaware breakers, reported having 500 strokes per hour, but not in said yellow fever.

FOXCROFT ACADEMY.

THE FALL TERM of this Institution will commence the first Monday of September next and continue 12 weeks, under the charge of Mr Thomas Tash A B whose labors in the school and interest in the improvement and welfare of its pupils the past year have given entire satisfaction. Mr Tash will have connected with him in the instruction Miss Elizabeth A Caverno and others assistance such as the interest of the school seems to require. Instruction will be given in the branches usually pursued in such schools. The Ancient and Modern languages will be thoroughly taught. The natural Sciences illustrated by appropriate experiments and lectures, and those preparing to teach will receive particular attention. Miss C will instruct a class in Music on the Piano Forte and in Drawing and Painting. She has recently had charge of the Female Department of the Academy at Smithfield R. I. and comes recommended as one "whose qualifications have been fully tested." We are fitting a very pleasant and convenient room for the FEMALE DEPARTMENT, where the young ladies will pursue their studies, interchanging with the other department in their recitations, and it is believed that they will be as pleasantly and profitably situated here as at any other Female Department in the State and at much less expense. Students will find it much for their advantage to be in at the commencement of the Term. Board may be had near the Academy from $1.00 to 1.33 per week.
Tuition.—In common English studies $2 75 in the higher English studies $3 25, and in the Languages $3 75 per Term.
For lessons on the Piano Forte $4.00, for the use of the instrument $1.00, and for lessons in Drawing and Painting $2.50 extra will be charged.
